CHILD FALLS IN HICKORY CREEK AND IS DROWNED

The body of John Benson, two and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benson, New Lenox, was recovered Saturday from Hickory creek, after a two-day search in which the residents of New Lenox and the surrounding countryside joined.

It was Walter Swenson, a member of the New Lenox Boy Scout troop, who found the body, caught and held by tree roots just west of the bridge over Hickory creek in the village and about a quarter of a mile west of the Benson home.

Picking Flowers in Yard.
The Benson family lives in a new subdivision north of the Rock Island railroad right-of-way. Hickory creek winds its way thru this tract, touching the rear of Benson's lot.

About 5:30 o'clock last Thursday afternoon John, or "Bunny" as he usually was called, was picking flowers in his back yard. A few minutes later he had disappeared.

Some gypsies had been camping in the locality Thursday and at first it was thought that the lad might have been kidnapped until searchers found his cap floating on the water, a pathetic clue as to the youngster's fate.

A. U. Walsh, a deputy sheriff at New Lenox, and a crew of men exploded a quantity of dynamite in the creek Friday afternoon in the hope of bringing the body to the surface.

Scouts Find Body
Saturday morning the Boy Scouts under the leadership of the Rev. M. C. Galloway, began a detailed search of the creek. Wading in and probing among the roots of a tree that had fallen across the creek 40 rods west of the New Lenox bridge, young Swenson came upon the body. With the aid of Walter Sayers, a fellow scout, it was removed from the water and taken to the corner's office at Joliet.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGovney in Mokena to the Mokena M. E. church, the Rev. M. C. Galloway of New Lenox, M. E., and Rev. Glen T. Beatty, pastor of the Mokena M. E. officiating.

The edifice was thronged beyond capacity and the floral offerings were profuse and beautiful. Mrs. Louise Breidert, of Frankfort, Mrs. Vera Ostrus of New Lenox, accompanied by Miss Dorothyanna Koerner of Frankfort sang a number of selections. Interment was in Marshall cemetery.

Mokena Hard Road Association Elects New Treasurer

At the Mokena Development and Hard Road Association meeting held at the school house Tuesday evening Charles Hirsch was elected treasurer, succeeding Dr. E. G. MacMahon.

At this meeting it was brought out that the bill which had been introduced in the legislature as bill No. 422 by Representative John M. Jenco asking for an appropriation of $200,000 to build a connecting link of concrete on Wolf Road from route 51 to the Will and Cook county line north of Mokena to connect with the Southwest Highway, was tabled when Col. C. R. Miller of the Department of Public Works and Buildings appeared before the appropriation committee and demanded that all road appropriation bills be killed after the gas tax bill was withdrawn by Senator Meentz. Had the gas tax measure gone over it is probable that the appropriation bills would have gone over with it.

A letter from Rep. M. F. Hennery was read in which he stated he is opposed to the gas tax in any form. He said that Don C. Hall of Mokena worked hard for the passage of bill No. 422 but that when the gas tax bill was withdrawn the appropriation bills were then put out of commission.

The next move now is to get Wolf Road graded for the time being from the county line to the Maple road. At present the town of Frankfort is graveling this road making a 9 foot roadway. A move is on to get more state stone and make this an 18 foot roadway.

Cook County is proposing to make Wolf Road a super highway 40 feet wide from the county line north to Lake County a distance of 40 miles according to the latest reports from Cook County. Anton Cernak, president of the Cook County Board is strongly for this plan it is said.

The Mokena Development Association has been asked for more Wolf Road signs. President Cernak of the Cook County Board wants one, Western Springs has asked for one and sent a representative here a week ago, and Orland Park wants one to place at 143rd street. These signs are now being painted and will be ready for distribution soon.

The Mokena organization will hold their next meeting next Tuesday evening at the school house. Everyone invited. Plans are under way now to advertise Mokena and work for the development of the community.

OUTLAW WAR SAYS SPEAKER

The Mokena Memorial Day program was held Monday morning in parlors of the St. John church. First the girl Scouts with Francis Moriarty as color bearer and Frank Hirsch as cornetist marched to the St. Mary old Denny and St. John cemeteries where the graves of the soldiers were decorated with flowers and flags, while Clinton Kraus fired a salute and Mr. Hirsch played taps.

Upon the return from the cemeteries the program was held in the St. John church parlors. Rev. W. J. Cramer was to have served as chairman of the day, but at last moment word he had been called away out of town, so Rev. Glen T. Beatty of the Mokena M. E. church was pressed into service and served as chairman.

Rev. Mr. Hitchins of the Richard St. M. E. church of Joliet was the speaker of the day and gave a wonderful address. He showed how our forefathers had founded our nation on noble and righteous principles, but how this nation is retreating back from these noble precepts by indulging in rotten politics, graft, and many other things which are contrary to the ideals of true Americanism. He showed that the nation needs courage, that its people must take on the unfinished task left by the heroic men of '61. He said we must not let our hyphenism and all else that is foreign to the ideals of Lincoln and other notable American leaders.

He touched on the World War and pointed out how America failed in its promises to the boys who went across the sea to help make the world safe for democracy. When they went over they were given all kinds of assurances of how they would be remembered on their return and those who were fortunate enough to come back, found that all these promises were empty ones and the soldier boy was forgotten and his sacrifices went by unappreciated.

The speaker scathed congress for its utter neglect of his war heroes. He pointed out that millions are appropriated for every conceivable thing from sick cattle to sick bees but not a penny for the needy soldiers who must be cared for by public charity thru the sale of poppies and other charitable means. Rev. Mr. Hitchins himself of English extraction, made a fervid plea for the outlawing of war for ever. He said that the hope of the world centers in America and if we fail to do what is expected of us, the world's hopes are lost.

The Mokena Glee club sang a number of selections. Wm. Semmler editor of The News-Bulletin who sponsored the celebration of Memorial Day a number of years ago, read the roll call of the soldier dead buried in the three cemeteries about Mokena.

At the close of the program a collection was taken and it was suggested that appropriate iron markers be purchased and placed on each soldier's grave next year. Albert Capel, local grain dealer, was elected chairman of the Memorial Day committee for next year succeeding Mrs. Rose Moriarty who so successfully carried out the programs for the past two years. The members of the committee who worked with Mrs. Moriarty are to be complimented on their good work of the past which is much appreciated.

In the afternoon a pretty bouquet of flowers was presented to Millis Knickerbocker, 95 years old, the only living Civil War Veteran living in New Lenox and Mokena. Mr. Knickerbocker relates many interesting incidents of the Civil War and saw Lincoln during the great army review at the close of the war.

Mokena Favors Band Organization

Those folk of Mokena who are musically inclined feel that a band ought to be started again in Mokena. There is enough talent here to make it possible. It has also been suggested that the ladies as well as the men could become members of such a band. With the capable musical directors which Mokena has it should not be a difficult task to make a big success of such an undertaking. The band stand erected in the village park years ago when the one time Boy Scouts had a band, could be used very nicely for week end concerts or open air rehearsals. What say, shall we have a band?

Show No Appreciation

On returning from the seven o'clock Mass of the Orland Catholic church held on Decoration Day, some of the congregation found a big sedan overturned in the ditch on 143rd St. The four young people in it were very evidently suffering the ill effects of all night roadhouses plus moonshine. The girl who had been running the car or rather attempting to, was brought in a half conscious state to Dr. Schussler's office for treatment. Later, when no one was noticing, she slipped away, showing no appreciation whatever for the kindnesses rendered them.

Boquets

The News-Bulletin is making friends and enemies by heaving straight to the line in publishing what it feels is right and for the best interests of the people. The News-Bulletin is the only paper in Will County that has dared to publish the full court proceedings of the Weston vote recount and was the first and only paper in the county to publish pictures of the fraudulent votes showing how the ballots were altered in the election last November for the office of sheriff of Will County. Since this exposure several other county papers have published these cuts.

Following is a letter of appreciation on the manner in which The News-Bulletin has handled this matter:

Editor News-Bulletin,
Mokena, Illinois

Dear Sir:—
You are to be commended for publishing in your issue of May 20, photographs of some of the ballots cast in the recent election for Sheriff of Will County. People are interested in seeing for themselves just how these contested ballots were marked.

Yours Truly,
Willard C. Owen.

A very high compliment was paid the News-Bulletin this week by County Supt. of Schools August Maue of Joliet when he said The News-Bulletin is one of the bravest papers in Illinois when it comes to exposing corruption and any evil that injures the well being of any community. A tribute like this coming from an official holding an important office in the county, means something.

The News-Bulletin has no strings tied to it, cannot be bribed, bought or intimidated. We stand for square dealing for the right, and the right only. This is the foundation this paper was started on and will continue to be as long as it is published.

Route 51 Right of Way Held Up

From present indications it is problematical if route 51 will be constructed this year as much trouble is being encountered in securing the right of way.

In the village of Frankfort the proposed road if built 80 feet wide as proposed by the state, would run up to the door steps of the residences on either side of the street. The property owners have had a number of meetings and will not consent to an 80 foot roadway. The present width of the street is 66 feet and if the state does not build the road this width thru the village it will have to locate the road outside the village it is said. According to the law the road must be built thru the limits the road if built outside of the main part of town would have to run thru the Logan and Polkers property northward to the Lincoln Highway.

Some residents of the village also feel it would be a dangerous thing to have the concrete road run right thru the heart of the village as many children have to cross this street going and coming from school and this road would naturally be made a roadway by many crazy drivers just as is the case on the Lincoln Highway.

It is understood a number of property owners in Cook County are also blocking the right of way of route 51 in Cook County by refusing to sell land for the needed right of way.

PETER MICHELESEN TO BUILD NEW HOUSE

Peter Michelesen is planning to sell his present home on Wolf Road and building a new modern home near his oil station.

MOKENA SCHOOL HOLDS COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The commencement exercises of the Mokena public school were held Thursday evening in the St. John Evangelical church parlors. Five students completed the three year Commercial High School course and thirteen from the Eighth Grade.

MAY DECIDE ELECTION FIGHT END OF MONTH

The election contest wherein Albert M. Weston, et al., are contesting the right of Albert E. Markgraf, Sheriff of Will County, to hold the office and being heard before County Judge Ralph C. Austin, is nearing its close.

The respondents have been calling witnesses in their behalf for the past week endeavoring to rebut the testimony offered by the petitioners witnesses who testified several weeks ago.

The respondents have called all Judges and Clerks of the First, Seventh, Fourteenth, Seventeenth Joliet Precincts, the First of Frankfort, Fourth of Lockport and Second of Plainfield. Also Harold Markgraf, nephew of the present Sheriff, Amelia Pehlke and James I. Ennis.

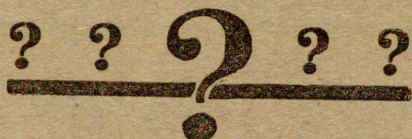

The next witness to be called since last week's issue of the News-Bulletin was Harold Markgraf, nephew of Sheriff Markgraf and the same person that Frank Marino, Colburn Avenue, had testified to as having seen vote four or five times at the Fourteenth precinct. Mr. Markgraf denied these charges and said he had voted but once on election day and that once in his own precinct. He also stated that he was driving an auto that was taking voters to the fourteenth precinct but that he had not alighted from the car on any of his trips to the precinct. He further testified that on Sunday May 22, 1927, at Joe Dunn's soft drink parlor on South Bluff St., that Marino had told him he was going to make trouble for Bob Haley if he had to go to the pen for it.

The election officials of the Seventh precincts consisting of Chas. Hermes, August Hartwig and John J. McCarthy, Judges and Mrs. Hermes, Alice Waldvogel and Henry Grassie, Clerks, were called and denied that they had marked, changed or altered any ballots cast by the voters.

When the ballots had been opened for re-counting it was found that some of them had peculiar markings. Many were objected to by Attorney Edward R. Nadelhoffer as being not good ballots and having a different cross in the Markgraf square than other crosses appearing on the ballot. Jay Fordyce Wood, handwriting expert for Weston, passed on these ballots and in his opinion pronounced many of them as being bad.

David D. Anderson, Attorney for Weston, on cross-examination asked John J. McCarthy, if he was not the same John J. McCarthy who was under indictment for stuffing the ballot box in the Fifth District in the Joliet City election. Robert W. Martin, Attorney for Markgraf, objected to this question being answered and the Judge sustained the objection.

The Judges and Clerks of the Seventeenth precinct were next called. The judges were Chas. H. Voight, Bernard J. Fay and Dominic Canino. The clerks were Simon Farrell, Hugh Fay, Jr., and James Russell. The following testimony on direct examination of Bernard J. Fay will show practically what each person testified to:

CHILD BADLY HURT WHEN SLIDE BREAKS

Iris, youngest daughter of Mrs. Florence Hamilton of Mokena, was seriously injured Thursday morning at the Mokena school grounds. She in company with other little girls were sliding down a slide, a part of the school yard play equipment, when the slide broke and a sharp, jagged piece of board struck her right leg severing an artery. Before help reached her she nearly died of blood. She was taken to the Cooper & Hostert garage and emergency methods were used to stay the flow of blood. Dr. E. G. McMahon was out of town and could not be reached. Dr. W. V. Hedges of Frankfort was at the Silver Cross hospital and within 15 minutes after receiving the emergency call he was at the garage. The little victim was rushed to the Silver Cross hospital. Owing to the great loss of blood she was extremely weak and a blood transfusion had to be resorted to. The mother gave a pint of her own blood. Other children on the slide at the time of the accident had a narrow escape from injury.

This accident shows that all school playground equipment should be inspected frequently to guard against just such accidents as this.

Palos To Have Benefit Play

Sportsman's Inn Ready For Rush

The Sportman's Inn Restaurant at Tinley Park, Lorenz & Rein proprietors, has installed a large gas range this week and James Berry the chef says he is more than delighted as he can now serve chicken dinners and lunches at short order as his kitchen is now equipped with a steady even heated range. This shows the progressive spirit of Messrs. Lorenz & Rein and the patronage of their establishment is bound to increase.

Senator Richard Barr's bill, providing that the president of the University of Illinois hold office at the pleasure of the board of trustees, instead of for a two-year term by election, passed the senate without opposition.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis G. Blair, as president of the National Educational association, sent the following message of congratulation to Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh:

"As president of the National Educational association I send you the hearty congratulations of its 175,000 members on the great achievement of your distinguished son."

Mrs. Lindbergh is a teacher and a member of the National Educational association.

Senate Bill No. 343, providing a tax of two cents a gallon on the sale of gasoline for motor fuel was struck from the senate calendar on motion of Senator Meents, the original sponsor of the bill. The motion carried without opposition. The house committee on roads, however, reported an amended bill out with favorable recommendation. In its amended form the bill provides that one-half of the revenue derived from a two cent tax on gasoline shall be refunded to the various counties for road purposes.

A party of state officials and other prominent Alabama citizens, headed by Col. Wilson Woolsey Finnell, director of highways of Alabama and chairman and chief engineer of the highway department, are making a tour of inspection of the hard roads of Illinois. They will examine highways and highway laws. Colonel Finnell said, "Illinois has the best system of hard roads in the United States, and has made more progress in road building than any other state."

The Illinois department of agriculture has issued restrictions, which are effective immediately, against the importation of potatoes from areas infested with the tuber moth. The insect deposits eggs upon the surface of potatoes as well as on the under side of the leaves of the growing plants. The restrictive order bears the signatures of S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture; O. T. Olsen, superintendent of the division of plant industry, and Gov. Len Small.

The nonpartisan house members conference group, M. P. Rice, president, and Robert Whiteley, secretary, at its weekly meeting discusses pending legislation, and is reported to be unusually successful this session. Fifty-one different members have been in voluntary attendance, but not all at one meeting. The group is in effect and purpose an unofficial house committee and was first organized at the 1921 session.

A new reapportionment bill was offered in the senate by Senator Herman J. Haenisch, Chicago. It provides for 31 districts in the downstate and 24 in Cook county. Some time ago Senator John Dalley, Peoria, introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to redistrict the state, which was adopted by the senate but was killed in the lower branch.

The senate passed the income tax bill, providing for a levy of 1 per cent on incomes up to $5,000, 2 per cent on incomes between $5,000 and $10,000, and 3 per cent on incomes above $10,000. The bill now goes to the house. If it passes there, it must still be approved by a referendum vote before it goes into effect.

Scores of resolutions and protests in various forms against the Lager horse race bill, permitting pari-mutuel betting have been received by Gov. Len Small. These resolutions came from churches and other organizations, and numbers of letters and telegrams from individuals urging that he veto the bill were received.

Charles L. Capen of Bloomington, for more than thirty years a member of the state board of education, died at his home following a brief illness contracted in Chicago while attending the state board meeting. He was eighty-two years old.

Representative C. W. Turner's bill, enabling the state department of agriculture to fight the European corn borer, passed the senate without a dissenting vote. The bill carried an emergency clause and proceeded at once to Governor Small for his signature.

Measles numerically heads the list of contagious diseases in the state with 1,060 cases, according to the latest report issued by Dr. L. D. Rawlings, state health director. There are 431 case of mumps and 327 cases of pneumonia.

Looting of property in the flooded district of East Peoria resulted in Governor Small's dispatching Companies E and F, One Hundred Thirtieth infantry, Peoria, to the Tazewell county district.

In a special message to the house and senate, Governor Small asked that a joint committee be appointed for the consideration of all cyclone and flood relief measures. Such a committee could review the entire situation throughout the state in connection with the proposed relief legislation and see that relief appropriations were equitably distributed. Governor Small's recommendation read in part: "I therefore suggest that the general assembly appoint a joint cyclone and flood relief committee to institute immediate consideration of the requirements of all communities in the state that are seeking relief in order that immediate and equitable provision may be made for meeting the necessities of the situation so far as can consistently be done with due regard for the rights of the taxpayers of the state."

The department of public works and buildings announced the award of the following contracts for state road and bridge work in five counties, as follows: A. P. Munsen, Marion, Iowa, $54,354.15, bridge on Route 78, Section 120B, Peoria county. Vincennes Bridge company, Vincennes, Ind., $6,358.67, bridge on Route 78, Section 120C, Peoria county. Harvey L. Roberts, Rushville, Ill., $9,625, bridge on Route 99, Section 102B, Hancock county. J. J. Donagan Construction company, Shenandoah, Iowa, $176,264.50, pavement on Route 6, Section J-R, Cook and Dupage counties. L. Gray, St. Louis, $84,949.28, grading on Route 88, Section 123A, Mercer county.

Justice Oscar E. Heard, Freeport, succeeds Justice Clyde E. Stone, Peoria, as chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court for the coming year, when that body convenes for the June session. An important pending case on the docket, is the case from Lee county involving the validity of the present state-wide primary election law. If the new primary bill already introduced in the legislature is enacted, the action of the Supreme court on the law of 1910, will in no way affect the new law.

Work on the construction of the new grandstand at the state fair grounds is being pushed forward by a force of workers, numbering 250 at times. It is expected that it will be completed by July 15. The grandstand is said to be the largest and most modern in the Middle West, and it will overlook a new mile racing track. The work is being carried on under the direction of Director Leslie Small of the state department of purchases and construction.

Miss Eva Young, postmistress of the house of representatives, and Misses Anna and Margaret McDonald attended the funeral at Mount City of Hon. Charles Curren, former member of the house. Congressman Edward E. Denison, Marion, and the following members of the house of representatives also attended the funeral: Representatives Carl Chissoer, Benton; Claude L. Rew, Harrisburg; Wallace A. Bandy, Marion, and Alexander Wilson, Cairo.

Senator Starr's bill providing for a 48-hour week for women has passed the senate. Under its provisions women may work a maximum of ten hours a day so long as they do not exceed the forty-eight hours a week. This measure removes some objections against the O'Neill bill, killed some time ago in the house. The Starr bill now goes to the house.

Senator Richard Meents' bill, appropriating $38,800,000 for hard roads, passed the senate without opposition. The appropriation includes $50,000 for the construction of a state cement plant.

The house committee reported out with favorable recommendation the quo warranto bill, designed to prevent ouster proceedings against any constitutional officer. It has already passed the senate.

The house committee on appropriations reported out for passage the bill appropriating $300,000 for the erection of a reformatory for women at Joliet. This measure passed the senate some time ago.

The senate committee on license and miscellany reported Senator Frank McDermott's bill, repealing the act restricting the manufacture of intoxicating liquors, out for passage.

The senate passed Representative Robert Whiteley's bill aimed against the chicken thief. This bill requires the registration of chickens sold in the state.

Former State Senator Albert C. Clark, who for sixteen years was a member of the state legislature from the Thirteenth district of Chicago, died in Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. Clark was succeeded by Senator Harry Starr last year.

The O'Grady-Weber bill, repealing the search and seizure and prohibition acts, was reported out with favorable recommendation by the senate committee on license and miscellany. The bill has passed the house.

Pretty Things that are Made at Home

NO MORE time to spend in working cross-word puzzles, now that the mode is calling so insistently for hand-painted scarfs, ties, kerchiefs and like accessories. Of course one can buy most beautiful specimens of neckwear, and silk squares, painted as only professional artists can paint them. Indeed, they are working overtime in studios everywhere in order to supply fashion's demand for accessories such as are here pictured.

However, if really ambitious there types and demands may be. For the woman who desires to express her individuality to the utmost and still be in the mode there has never been such millinery opportunity.

In sports hats the clever little cloche gives promise of holding its own. It can be had in infinite varieties from dainty viscas in esthetic colors to the new wool crochets. A hat of wool crocheted with a stenciled design in contrasting colors and edged with bengaline ribbon would be a crowning is no reason why the amateur should not try out the experiment of transforming lengths of silk, chiffon or velvet into charming accessories, by embellishing them with paint and dye.

It is such fun to work out one's own ideas and that is the keynote of interest in this vogue for hand painting—to illustrate one's finery, so to speak. One paints scenic views on the ends of one's scarf, perhaps waves and a sailboat, and a figure or two across the sleeve of a sailor blouse, or a bizarre dragon on the back of one's satin boudoir or beach coiffe coat.

Fashion's latest whim is to paint necktie and handkerchief to match. Clever for the equestrienne is a tie and handkerchief with a horse's head or figure painted on each as shown in this group of accessories. Other of

For the more formal occasions, when good taste insists upon a more elaborate costume, the small hat need not necessarily be eliminated from the picture. Every wardrobe of hats for this summer should therefore include a little afternoon type. What could be more charming than this chic model of brown lace portrayed first in the group? It boasts a tracery of gold and its brim is faced with gold cloth.

In the larger brimmed models, hair, milan and ballbunnet will unquestionably dominate with a range of trimmings which begins with the simplest of ornaments and ends with the most elaborate arrangements of flowers and ostrich motifs. An exquisite exponent the tie and handkerchief sets in the picture are also decorated with quaint objects. For the tennis player an appropriate motif would be a tennis racket. Butterflies, birds and flowers are charming subjects for the artist.

Hand-blocked silk squares, preferred by many to scarfs, are done in gorgeous colors and in bold modernistic patterns after the style of those here pictured.

Millinery artistry and millinery diversity would seem to have at last reached its goal—that of providing suitable hats for all occasions and for all wearers, no matter what their

of the wide-brim type centers the illustration. Black velvet forms the crown and the deep flange is white hair braid.

Below to the left is a small hat in a jade speckled effect, stitched in square design. This model would be a very delightful finishing touch to a shopping and informal luncheon ensemble.

The last hat in the group is made of the new combination of yarn and viscra, using coral pink and white for its color scheme.

EVERYDAY FOODS

The onion is one of our most valuable vegetables. The following way of serving them is worth trying:

Onions Stuffed With Peanut Butter.—Select mild, medium sized onions. Peel and boil until tender, cut out the centers from each, leaving a shell of the onion. Chop the onion removed, add an equal quantity of peanut butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-half teaspoonful of paprika. Mix and fill the onions. Place in a buttered baking dish and bake with hot cream three times during the baking. Serve with a sauce using the liquid from the pan, thickened.

Scalloped Chicken With Corn.—Use the leftover meat from a stewed or roasted fowl. For each cupful of the meat add one cupful of fresh corn or of cornlet (corn prepared by pressing out the centers) and one cupful of cream sauce. Place the chicken mixed with the sauce in layers with the corn. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Best Cake.—Cream three-fourths of a cupful of butter, add one and one-quarter cupfuls of sugar gradually, the beaten yolks of four eggs, one-half cupful of cold water, two and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and lastly the stiffly beaten whites folded in. Put together with a coffee filling and cover with maple frosting and nuts.

Hot Butterscotch Sauce.—Stir and cook together one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of corn syrup, and one-half cupful of boiling water with one-third of a cupful of butter. Cook until brown, then add one-third of a cupful of boiling water and serve over ice cream. The sauce should harden slightly on the cream.

Sweetbreads Country Style.—Dredge with seasoning and flour, sufficient parboiled sweetbreads. Arrange in a baking dish, brush with melted butter, allowing two tablespoonfuls to each pair of sweetbreads. Cover with thin slices of fat salt pork. Bake in a hot oven twenty-five minutes, basting twice during the cooking. Remove the pork during the last five minutes of cooking.

For the Convalescent. More insistent than the call for food is the desire for drink, in both health and illness. The sense of hunger may depart, but the desire for drink is seldom lost. In illness the thought of food is often distasteful, but the desire for fluids is intensified. While water is the one drink most desired for quenching thirst, other drinks are highly enjoyed by both sick or well. In illness, besides quenching thirst, liquids reduce the temperature of the patient; they also serve as a form to give nourishment when more solid foods are refused or cannot be taken.

Drinks relieve nausea, stimulate the heart, excite the gastric juices, control bowels and soothe the congested state of the alimentary canal. So we must recognize their importance in dealing with illness.

All drinks, as well as other foods given to a patient, should be subject to the advice of the physician in attendance, for even harmless grape juice has proved fatal in cases recovering from typhoid.

Like everything else prepared for the invalid's table, all beverages should be made and served with the utmost cleanliness. A smeary, thick glass of lukewarm lemonade or other drink, which should be cold and attractive to the eye, would nauseate a well person.

Various fruit juices of other kinds than lemon and orange may be used, though these are used most commonly for they are the best liked. Ginger ale with a little grape juice is a fine cooling drink, pineapple, raspberry in shrub or sirup, are all good. They are more acceptable when chilled or served with chipped ice added.

When beverages of any kind, hot or cold, are carried to a sick room they should be covered, and never left uncovered in the sick room.

Very hot beverages stimulate the digestive fluids, while cold ones retard, and lower the temperature in fever.

When it is convenient to have a supply of ice or a cold drink at hand at night, ice may be kept for hours as follows: Tie a piece of flannel over a deep bowl or pan that can be tightly covered; into this flannel drop pieces of ice so that the flannel will not reach the water as the ice melts. Cover well and ice will keep for hours, to use during the night.

Orange juice alone, strained and chilled, is an agreeable drink, a mild laxative and a fruit rich in minerals and vitamins. It is given, strained, to young babies and they thrive on it. The juice of an orange before breakfast for young or old, well or ill, will be found beneficial.

Wives Should Be Picked

Dr. Thomas Galloway, noted biologist, says if social hygiene were interpreted correctly and taught with kindness and careful guidance, young men would learn how to pick mates instead of marrying for infatuation. "Clear understanding of life would eliminate a large number of marriage failures. Divorces would fall off. I do not mean, however, that marriage is a failure, for there are fewer matrimonial failures in proportion to business failures. Marriage is a sound institution." —Capper's Weekly.

Why They Chuckled

Smith had been troubled by his neighbor's hens. One day he was looking at them over the fence when he inquired, "By the way, Jones, what did you pay for those fowls?" "A dollar apiece," replied Brown. "Ah, that explains it," said Smith. "I wonder what the things had to chuckle about."

Vote at Judicial

Election Next Mon.
FOR HOOPER, HILL, MAYHEW
CAPABLE — HONEST — EXPERIENCED.

On next Monday, June 6th, an election will be held to choose three circuit judges for our Judicial Circuit and who will hold office for the coming six years.

The twelfth Judicial Circuit is comprised of the counties of Will, Kankakee and Iroquois. For many years past, it has been the custom to choose and elect one judge from each of the three counties in the circuit in order that each county might have a local resident judge to take care of emergencies that arise in their respective county. In practice, however, because of the greater population of Will County, the judges selected from the counties of Kankakee and Iroquois have spent fifty per cent of their time in disposing of legal matters in Will Co.

On April 22nd of this year, and as provided for by law, a Judicial Convention of both the Republican and Democratic parties of the three counties comprising the Judicial Circuit, was held at Joliet, Illinois, to nominate three candidates for the judge-ships. At this convention both the Republican and Democratic parties unanimously endorsed and nominated Judge Frederick A. Hill of Will County, Judge Frank L. Hooper of Iroquois County and Attorney John A. Mayhew of Kankakee County, as the choice of the people of their respective counties and as the candidates whose names will appear on the ballot under the designation of the Republican party. These men all have the confidence of the people of their respective counties and of the circuit, which is so necessary for the judiciary, for it is not only necessary that a law suit be decided right, but that the litigants and the people feel that the case has had calm, fair and important consideration.

Judge Frederick A. Hill, our local resident judge needs no introduction to the voters of the entire Judicial Circuit. He was born in Joliet, Ill., on September 10th, 1872 and has lived in the City of Joliet practically all his life. He is married and has three children. He was Master in Chancery of Will County from 1903 to 1915. Judge Hill was never a candidate for any political office until 1922 when he was unanimously selected by the Republican party and endorsed by the Democratic party as the candidate for Circuit Judge of this circuit to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Judge Dorrance Dibel. He was elected at the general election held in November 1922 and has served as Circuit Judge since that time. Judge Hill's record, while Circuit Judge since his election in 1922 as to his services, industry and efficiency, is such that he has won the confidence, admiration and respect of the people of the entire Judicial Circuit.

Judge Frank L. Hooper, the oldest of our present circuit judges, is recognized as one of the best qualified circuit judges in the State of Illinois. He was admitted to the Bar in 1886 and was engaged in the active practice of the law from 1886 to 1905, when he was elected to the circuit judge-ships of this circuit and has continued to act as such continuously and up to the present time. While he was engaged in the general practice of the law, before becoming a judge, he was considered one of the most successful practitioners in the entire community in which he resided. Judge Hooper is a man of high character, wide experience and unimpeachable honesty. His dealings with mankind have been such that he has won the admiration, confidence and respect of the entire community.

John A. Mayhew, the unanimous choice of Kankakee County at the Judicial Convention, is a successful practicing attorney at the Kankakee Bar. He was born on a farm near Wellington, Iroquois County, Illinois, in 1884, and educated in the public schools of Iroquois County and Normal University. He taught school in Iroquois County for nine years, five of which were spent as principal of schools in Martinton, Illinois. He was assistant county superintendent of schools of Iroquois County for two years. In 1915, he was admitted to the Bar and began the active practice of the law in the City of Mokena, Illinois. While there he was elected City Attorney and which office he held until his resignation upon his removal to the City of Kankakee. While practicing in the City of Kankakee, he served as City Attorney of that City for two years. He was Village Attorney for the Village of Manteno for four years and Village Attorney for the Village of St. Anne for three years. At the present time he is Attorney for the Board of Education of the City of Kankakee. He has also served as Master of Chancery of Kankakee County. Mr. Mayhew's qualifications, with reference to experience, industry, efficiency and character, are such that entitle him to the high position which he seeks.

Nothing is of more importance to the people of this community than the election of three men to the high position of Circuit Judges who are known to possess the basic and necessary qualifications which a good judge - in order to dispense earthly justice - must possess. In their hands in the first (and many times final) instance, is placed the life, liberty and property of the people of this community. Nothing will more quickly disrupt or destroy our form of government than the election of judges who have not the necessary qualifications of the people. The three judges, who are candidates on the Republican ticket, are men who are capable, honest, experienced and have the confidence of the people, and which is best evidenced by reason of each candidate having received the endorsement of his home community and from those who know them best. It is your duty to vote. Go to the polls next Monday, June 6th, and cast a vote for the three candidates on the Republican ticket and then you may rest assured that the affairs of the judiciary of the twelfth Judicial Circuit of this State, will be in the hands of men who are qualified.

WORTH

The church night at Worth Community Church Wednesday night proved a great success. A good time was had by all. There was about 90 people present, the members and those who were closely connected with the church. The events in the past have all been community affairs but this time it was for church promotion.

The people gathered at the church about 6:15 P. M. They were entertained for a while by Mr. Perry Bishop, Miss Hazel Stromberg, Miss Lillian Kaufman and Miss Ruth Mitchell. Following this they marched down stairs where the banquet was served by the younger girls of the church. Following the banquet Mr. Harold Ferrin spoke on the place of the Church in the community. The Rev. Coates of Lemont was then introduced and gave a most wonderful instructive and entertaining speech on the Church and the Community. We will long remember him. His words struck home in the hearts of all present.

Following the banquet and after inner speeches all went upstairs to the chapel where they were again entertained by Miss Ruth Mitchell, Hazel Stromberg and Lillian Kaufman in vocal solos and duets. These girls have all been taking voice lessons down in the city. They showed in a splendid way the results of their training.

The meeting up stairs was turned over to the problem of the child in the home and community. Mrs. Hankus, the Sunday School Superintendent introduced the subject in a very wonderful way. She was followed by Dr. Bradshaw who is head of the religious education department of the grave a very splendid speech on the problem of the Child. He is a national Federal Council of Churches. He is an authority on this subject so we were very fortunate in having him. All went away feeling they had had a very profitable and enjoyable evening and are looking forward to the next church night, which will be the last Wednesday in June.

New Barber for Worth
A long felt need for our community has at last been realized in our having a barber shop. The problem of getting up in the Good Fellowship Club meeting, Mr. O. Lysen informed the group that he had one engaged to occupy his new building on Harlem Avenue.

Mr. D. Sullivan has arrived. He is a barber of long experience in the city of Chicago. He is prepared to give very excellent service to our community. Let's boost home industry, try our barber and tell others about him.

ORLAND

ORLAND M. E. NOTES, Elmer L. Setterlund, pastor.

The regular moving picture entertainment is given every Friday evening at 8 p. m. daylight saving time.

Sunday June 5th, Bible school at 9:30 standard time. Morning worship at 10:30. Every service of worship prepares us to better appreciate the world in which we live and to become more spiritually minded. This is life's greatest objective - how do you measure up to it?

Evening service at 8 p. m. daylight saving time.

Next Sunday evening the service is a DIFFERENT ONE. There will be a continual throwing on the silver screen of mountain pictures from all over the world during the time of the delivery of the sermon, entitled "Climbing Mt. Hanare Yama, Japan". This is based on the pastor's experience in climbing "The Mountain of Flowers" as the name signifies.

The Women's Guild met at the parsonage last week Thursday, the 26th. A "pot luck dinner" was served at noon. This was the first opportunity some of the ladies have had to inspect the new bathroom which has been installed in the parsonage. All who saw the improvement were well pleased and realize the large improvement and higher value of the church property, aside from the added comfort to the minister and family.

Last Sunday evening there was a service of musical interest at the Orland Park M. E. Church. A large congregation had the pleasure of sharing in a Memorial Day service. The general meeting was in charge of Mr. Setterlund of the Orland church. The special music of the evening consisted of two pieces rendered by a double mixed quartette, namely Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beagley and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kay. Everyone greatly appreciated this music. The speaker of the service was the newly appointed pastor of the Chicago Ridge Presbyterian church, Mr. Aronson, a student at McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

Mr. Aronson is a capable speaker and gave a stirring patriotic address. Incidentally he told his congregation that he is a Russian Jew by birth, but became a Christian three years ago and joined the Presbyterian church and is now a Presbyterian minister. Mr. Aronson stressed the need of a thorough going Christian patriotism that has an international tone.

On Memorial Day at 2 p. m. the regular Memorial Day exercises were held at Brooks Cemetery just a little south of Goodings Grove. There was a large representation from the surrounding country side. A special program from school children was rendered and the speaker of the day was Mr. Setterlund of the Orland Park M. E. Church who stressed the thought of Memorial Day as being a day to remind us, "Lest we forget" the devotion of the boys of '61, '98 and '17 who died for their country. If the country is worth dying for it is even more worth living for. A Christian patriotism is needed to make America great - she will never be great out of mere buildings and materialism if she loses her soul in the process, but will crumble as so many nations have before her. A meeting of the Cemetery Association followed the conclusion of the program.

St. Michael's Church
"The Mission, conducted by the Servite Fathers, was a perfect success. It was officially brought to close by the giving of the Apostolic Blessing, Sunday Evening. A May procession of ten little girls and boys and seven acolytes, in honor of the Queen of May was also held. The two tiny Misses Lucas, John Ludwig and Jack Toelle carried a white satin pillow upon which rested the crown of flowers. Miss Grace Toelle was given the honor of placing the crown. This was done while the children sang hymns and the litany in honor of the Blessed Mother - their May Queen.

A field Mass, beneath the folds of Old Glory, was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Wm. A. Gorey, on Memorial Day. This, on the grounds just south of the church. Many of the parishioners were present.

The big prizes of the Independence Day Picnic, this year, are a lovely gumwood bed, complete with mattress and springs, an exquisite tapestried walnut armchair, 100 piece dinner set, with formal pattern, large etched mantel mirror and ten dollars in cash. Although the picnic is still one month distant, all the bearings are being looked into and "oiled up". Mr. Ed. Cowan, general mechanic, demands the same smooth perfection of success as on former years. The publicity committee, consisting of Miss Margaret Hostere, Mr. Wm. Newcomb and Mr. John Bremner Jr. has already placed its order, with Mr. Semmler, for wonderfully effective posters in color. Specially printed invitations, to distant friends, are being considered. Oh! everybody'll know about it alright and everybody'll be there - if the Publicity Committee isn't stopped!"

HOW A FARMING COMMUNITY WAS REBUILT AGAIN

Glass factories and coal mines had kept the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and the banker busy the year round in Point Marion, Pennsylvania. Hired men left the farms followed by the farm owners to get their share of the attractive wages.

Suddenly labor saving machinery was brought in to the old hand method window glass factories. The coal business took a drop and hundreds of people had to find new employment. Savings accounts dwindled. Deposits of the two banks dropped off almost a million dollars.

"Bring in more industries," was being sung at luncheon clubs all over the land, every town seemed to be advertising unlimited water supply, cheap fuel and free factory sites. Competition was keen and the reward doubtful.

The question came, "Why not stimulate the agricultural pursuits of the community which have lain dormant so long." Farm income might be increased and production costs lowered in many instances.

The first move of one of the banks was the purchase of healthy chicks. These were furnished by the bank at wholesale to interested farmers. Payment to be made by note payable in six months. The bank followed through by aiding in the dissemination of culling and feeding knowledge and by helping to market the cockerels which in most instances paid the initial cost of all the chicks.

When the pumpkins began to turn yellow, plans were laid for a great community exhibit. Besides the poultry display, farm produce exhibits from the surrounding country were entered. Altogether it made an impressive exhibit, bringing home the lesson to Point Marion people that there were great undeveloped opportunities within their own door yards which they had overlooked.

The annual exhibit will be continued in the future by the bank. A horse show is sponsored, better seed corn and seed potatoes are made available to the farmers for planting and the bank will continue to build agriculture in the community as a sound basis on which to work. "It will probably be some time before we shall see larger fruits of our endeavors," the banker says, "but we are looking ahead ten to fifteen years."

THE NEW MENACE

Hitch-hiking its way towards the nation's corncrib, the European corn borer is threatening to destroy crops to the value of billions of dollars and chase skyward the cost of production. If it worms its way into the Wabash and Mississippi Valleys, it can readily float downstream, spread out and become more difficult to control. Proper cooperation of all concerned will, no doubt, enable us to continue to grow corn profitably. Agricultural Bulletin, American Bankers Association.

A corn and apple show is to be an annual feature at a bank in Baltimore County, Maryland. Another banker has been able to get his county to "think corn," over 500 farmers planting improved corn. Many other bankers in the state are giving moral support and funds to this work.

Andrew Jackson's Politics

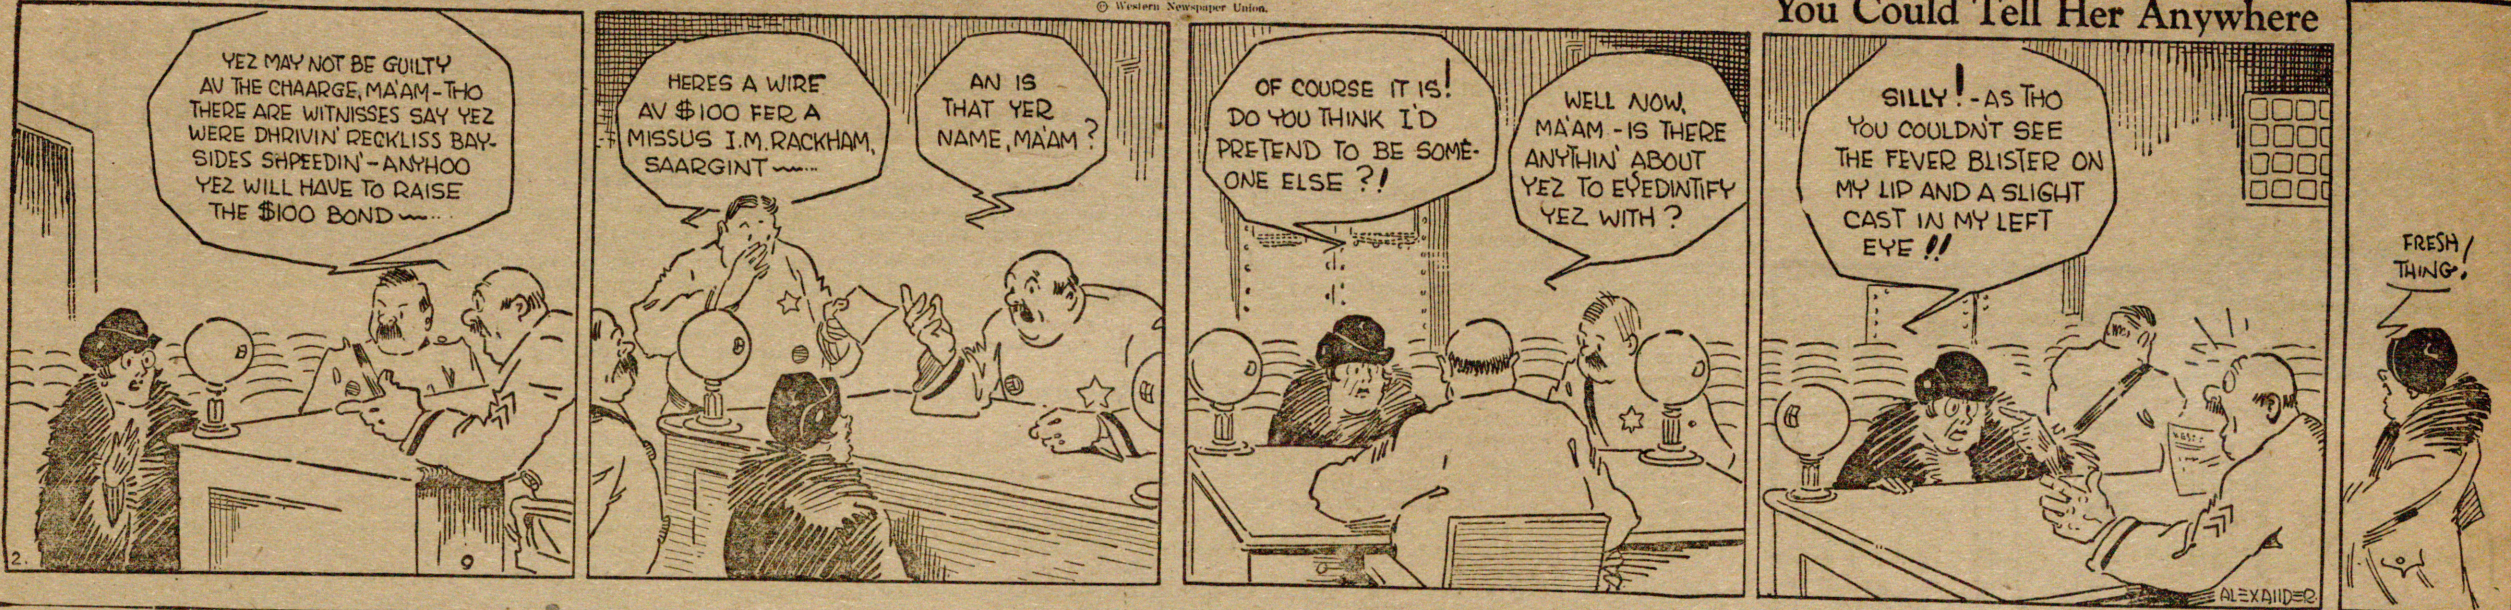

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Hermits' Cells Remain

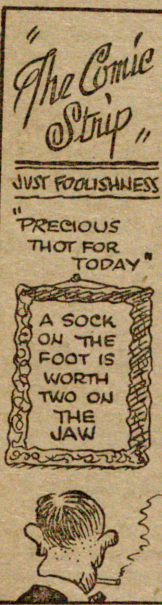

The mountains near the city of Jericho, says one who explored many of them, "are absolutely honeycombed by the cells of ancient anchorites and hermits from top to bottom." Some of these contain frescoes and inscriptions of much interest, dating back to the earliest years of the Christian era.

"Two hundred livres," he said instantly.

"Very well. It shall be paid. You will be detained here for a time, and I will purchase for you a sufficient number of beaver pelts to defray that sum."

And, turning to Ta-wan-ne-ars, I asked him to give the necessary instructions to the Onondagas. The messenger, a look of sour satisfaction on his cunning face, was marched off to undergo the restraint of an unwelcome visitor.

"Well?" I said to Ta-wan-ne-ars. The Seneca returned me the word. "See," he said, pointing to the wild geese flying in pairs to the south, "the cold weather is coming. Black Robe will be delayed in returning from his visit to the Onondagas. And that is a very good thing for us, brother. But for that I think we would be too late."

"But we shall have fighting," I exclaimed. "The Keepers will soon discover us, and no matter how numerous we may be they will fight desperately. They may carry her away to Canada before we reach La Vierge du Bois."

"This is true," he admitted. "And the thought Ta-wan-ne-ars had, brother, was that we might leave to Do-ne-ho-ga-weh and Corlaer the breaking of the Doom Trail whilst you and I with a handful of warriors marched around by the way we escaped, as the white maiden advises in her letter. That way is not guarded, for none has known it, and perhaps we may hide in the Wood of the False Faces and bear off the maiden in the confusion of a surprise attack."

"It sounds reasonable," I said doubtfully. "It is preferable to trusting to the main attack."

"There is no other plan," he rejoined with energy. "Now we must tell what we have learned to Do-ne-ho-ga-weh, and arrange our plans with him."

The Guardian of the Western Door was the center of an immense mob of warriors who danced around the war post which had been planted in the council-place.

The grim face of Do-ne-ho-ga-weh was alight with the joy of battle.

"Behold, O my son," he called to me, "the warriors of the Eight Clans are with us. Our brothers of the Turtle, Beaver, Bear and Wolf, and our younger brothers of the Snipe, Heron, Deer and Hawk, all hunger for the scalps of the Keepers of the Trail."

"A thousand braves will follow us on the warpath. We will give the French a lesson. They shall see the might of the Long House."

But the light faded from his features as Ta-wan-ne-ars told him of the message from Marjory. A look of cold hatred accentuated the grimness of the hooked nose and high cheekbones.

"The French dog De Veulle is wearied of Ga-ha-no," he rasped. "He has had enough of the red maiden. Now he craves the white. Yes, it is well that my red nephew and my white son should go against this man who knows no laws to curb his lust. I charge you, do not spare him."

"We will not spare him," I promised. "Good! It shall be as you ask. Corlaer shall guide me to the Doom Trail. How many warriors are to go with you?"

We debated this point together, and decided that for purposes of swift movement and secrecy we had best re-

Device That Combines Field Glass and Gun

A field-glass gun has been devised which serves the purpose of both a light gun and a powerful glass. A short barrel is rigged between a pair of telescopes, and a bar with a recoil pad extends to the forehead to take the "kick" from the discharge. If a heavy caliber is used, a shoulder stock can also be provided so that the shooter will not suffer too great a shock.

The telescope gun does better work than the ordinary rifle telescope because it gives the advantage of a pair of binoculars and is much lighter and more convenient to handle. The old rifle telescope, which has become fairly common, does not allow enough light to reach the eye, so that its best use is confined to target shooting. A deer hunter in the woods is hardly able to distinguish an animal he has seen when he sights through the telescope. Two well-constructed telescopes, mounted as a part of the gun as in this device, should prove of great value, and may replace the old type, just as binoculars have replaced the telescope in a great many uses of the latter instrument.

Idleness is the stupidity of the body, and stupidity the idleness of the mind.—Seume.

strict our escort to twenty men. Do-ne-ho-ga-weh approved this number. "Do nothing, if you can help it, until we have begun our attack," he said. "If you must move without us, rely upon flight, for you cannot hope to succeed by fighting."

Our party mustered at dawn the next morning. It consisted of twenty stalwart young Seneca Wolves, each man selected by Ta-wan-ne-ars for strength and wind. In addition to their clothing and weapons each man also carried two lengthy contrivances of wood, with hide strips laid across them.

"What are they for?" I asked as Ta-wan-ne-ars presented me with a pair and showed me how to fasten them on my back so that the narrower ends stuck up over my head.

"Ga-weh-ga—snow-shoes," he replied. "In the wilderness, brother, the snow lies deep, and we should sink down at every step once the ground was covered after the first storm. You must learn how to use the ga-weh-ga, for otherwise you would be helpless."

We kept our purpose a strict secret, even from the warriors of our escort. They were told no more than that they were given an opportunity to go upon a hazardous venture which should yield them fame and a proportionate toll of scalps.

That was all they wanted to know. Ta-wan-ne-ars was a leader they had fought under before. I was assigned a wholly undeserved measure of fame because of my recent adventures in his company.

We marched rapidly. For three days we averaged thirty miles a day, and each day, when we camped, I practiced with the snow-shoes on some level bit of ground, learning how to walk without catching the points and tripping myself.

We had not gone very far on the fourth day when O-da-wa-an-do, the Otter, a warrior who had attached himself to me, pointed through the leafless trees toward a grayish-white bank which was rolling down upon us from the north.

"O-ge-on-de-o," he said. "It snows." Fifteen minutes later the snow began to fall. Driven by a piercing wind, it descended like a vast, enveloping blanket, coldly damp, strangling the breath, blinding the eyes, numbing the muscles.

We struggled along against it until we came to a hillside scattered with large boulders. Here we halted and built shelters for ourselves by roofing the boulders with pine saplings we hacked down with our tomahawks. Under these, with fires roaring at our feet, we made shift to resist the cold.

The snow fell for the better part of two days, so thickly as to preclude traveling, and during that time we dared not stir from shelter, except to collect firewood. In the evening of the second day the storm passed, and the stars shone out in a sky that was a hard, metallic blue.

"We have lost much time, brothers," said Ta-wan-ne-ars, "and we have had a long rest. Let us push on tonight."

Our progress was slowed considerably by my clumsiness on snow-shoes. But the Otter and other warriors went to considerable pains to help me, picking out the easiest courses to follow, quick with hint or advice to remedy my ignorance. I became proficient enough to travel at the tail of the column, although my companions could never march as rapidly as they would have done without me.

The wilderness which was traversed by the Doom Trail was deserted because of the universal Indian fear of the False Faces. Ta-wan-ne-ars and I discussed this point as we neared the forbidden country, and I suggested that he tell his followers our destination.

He waited until we were a long day's march from and well to the northwest of the goal. Then he gathered the warriors about him as they mustered for the trail.

"Soon, O my brothers," he said in the musical, cadenced Seneca dialect which I was beginning to take pleasure in understanding, "we shall strike our enemies. It is a desperate enterprise you go upon. No war party ever set out to risk such heavy odds. No warriors of the Long House were ever called upon to practice such caution, to reveal such courage."

"O my brothers, we are going into the Wood of Evil, the haunt of the False Faces, which is the breeding place of all the wickedness that brands the Keepers of the Doom Trail. You will face much that is horrible. You will be threatened with spells and witchcraft. But I ask you to remember that my brother O-te-li-an-I and I passed through all such perils without harm. Keep your hearts strong."

"Because it is to the interest of our people to act even more than it is to the interest of the English," retorted Do-ne-ho-ga-weh with impassioned energy. "Already the English are more numerous than we are. They have strong forts. We have only the forest. They have brothers across the Great Water who will aid them. We have only the uncertain aid of our allies and subject tribes."

"The decision is in your hands. If you fight for the English you will survive and grow stronger. If you fight for the French or if you do not fight for the English, you will slowly be crippled and in a little time you will be no more feared than the Mohicans or the Eries."

"Na-ho!" That was the last speech of the day, and the council adjourned, only, as in the case of the Senecas' tribal council, to dissolve into minor councils of the royan-ehs of the different clan groups.

When the representatives of each tribe had reached the unanimity which was required by the laws of the League, they discussed the situation informally with the royan-ehs of the other tribes; and on the fifth day To-do-da-ho delivered the common judgment of the royan-ehs.

"Murray and the Keepers of the Doom Trail are the enemies of the Long House. We must break them now before they grow too powerful. Therefore we have decided to take up the hatchet against them. But we shall send word to Ga-en-gwa-ra-go, appealing to him, by virtue of the covenant chain between us, to support us against the vengeance of the French. This is the decision of the Ho-yar-na-go-war, O my people."

"Yo-hay!" answered the royan-ehs. And the thousands of people in the meadow echoed the shout.

My attention was diverted to a young Onondaga who attempted to explain something to me in his dialect. Seeing I could not understand, Ta-wan-ne-ars approached and listened to him, a look of astonishment creasing his usually impassive face.

"The Onondaga says that a Frenchman has come to the village who claims to have a message for you," translated the Seneca.

"For me? Who can it be from?" "I do not know, brother. Let us hasten and find out."

We pushed our way through the masses of warriors already beginning the war-dance, and after negotiating the vegetable gardens toward Ka-na-ta-go-wa.

CHAPTER XIV

The Evil Wood

We found the messenger squatting placidly by the council-house under the guard of several Onondagas. He was of the usual type of courier du bois, but with an unusually repellent countenance.

"You have a message for me?" I said.

"Are you Monsieur Ormerod?" he replied in his peasant's patois.

"I am."

He examined me with a sidewise squint out of his shifty eyes, and fished with one hand in the bosom of his filthy leather shirt.

"You will pay for the service?" he inquired warily. "She said you would pay what I asked."

I took one step forward and grasped the ruffian by the arm.

"Who? I repeated. 'Tell me, if you value your life! And give me the message.'

"No offense, no offense, monsieur," he growled, pulling away from me. "Mademoiselle Murray—"

"Give it to me," I insisted. "We will talk of pay afterward."

He reluctantly withdrew his hand from his shirt, and offered me a folded square of heavy paper, stained with sweat. I opened it carefully, lest it tear, and saw these lines of fine, angular writing staring me in the face:

"La Vierge du Bois, ye 21st Sept., 1725. 'You said You wld. come if I calld for You. I Begge you now, in ye Name of All you Holde Deer, help Me. I am to be Forde to wed ye Chev. de Veulle. 'Tis ye price he has Paid for his Services to Mr. Murray. They will Marrie me whenne Pere Hyancinthe is returned from a Visitt to ye Dionondages by ye Huronne Lake. So much grace I have obtained from them. Help Me. MARJORY."

"Do no! Trust ye messenger who carries this but please Pay him what he asks. Come by ye waye you Lefte through ye Woodde of ye False Faces."

Stunned, I read it a second time, then handed it to Ta-wan-ne-ars.

"What is your name?" I asked the messenger whilst Ta-wan-ne-ars scanned the paper.

"Baptiste Meurier," he said sullenly.

"Who gave you the paper?"

"Who but the mademoiselle herself?"

"How did she happen to choose you?"

He protruded his chest.

"Who better could she select than Baptiste Meurier?" he replied. "North of the Lakes everyone knows Baptiste Meurier—and I am not unknown to the Iroquois."

"But how did mademoiselle hear of you, Baptiste?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"Who can say? A beautiful young person says she has a mission of much importance and profit to be performed. I reply I will go anywhere for a price. I am told I have only to name it. And so I am here, monsieur."

"And what is your price?" I inquired, amused despite myself by the cool insolence of the scoundrel.

New York Planning to Put Streets on Roofs

New York city talks of a 16-mile roadway to be built on the roofs of 12-story buildings from the lower part of the city to Yonkers. Gotham's traffic problem is costing the city a million and a half dollars a day. This elevated highway on the roofs would be a motor-express thoroughfare. The man living out of town could motor down to his work without interference of cross-traffic and park his car on the roof of the building in which he makes his living. The improvement would soon pay for itself. Part of the plan calls for a series of moving platforms for pedestrians, along the second floor, the platforms running from a speed slow enough to step on easily, up to 20 miles an hour, to provide free transit on two new north and south avenues. It all reads like an H. G. Wells novel, but it may be realized.—Cap- per's Weekly.

Making Use of Maps for Dress Patterns

Old maps are amusing and interesting, says the Paris correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. Whether they will be altogether suitable as patterns for dresses remains to be seen. The French couturiers, who have now hit upon the notion of designing geographical frocks. They have taken the Sixteenth and Seventeenth century maps and propose to convey their quaint colors and contours to silks and satins. Afternoon and evening robes are dotted with many-starred mariners' compasses and little images indicating winds.

Sometimes the new frocks are covered with wavy seas and tree-bearing islands, but others are simply bordered with map scales. The firm which first thought of this ornamentation made a large collection of early travel books containing primitive maps. It is said that the new models have been favorably received by the "trade."

Hard and Soft Metals

Iridium, a metal belonging to the platinum group and often used on the tips of fountain pens, is the hardest pure metal known, recent tests have shown, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Molybdenum is next and tungsten third. Of the common metals, nickel is the hardest, ranking fifth. The tests did not include alloys, such as those of steel with a high percentage of carbon, which ranks higher than any. The tests showed that thallium is the softest metal, being twenty-fourth on the scale, lead was twenty-third and tin twenty-second. Gold ranks as number eighteen, silver fifteen, copper eleven, and iron ten.

Like Ghost From Past

In a letter recently received from her daughter Mary, Mrs. Randolph Winslow of Baltimore, Md., learned Mary was greatly enjoying her vacation, that she was a good girl and would be home soon. Mrs. Winslow appreciated getting the letter, although it had been written 30 years ago and Mary now has two children of her own. After a service of 40 years on the front porch, the Winslow family mail box gave up the ghost and this letter when the bottom fell out.

A. No Sir.
Q. Do you know what he was doing?

Q. Now, just tell us how and where the ballots were turned out previous to counting?
A. The ballots were turned out and put on a booth that had been laid down against the west wall.
Q. When you came to count them was that done?
A. Yes Sir.
Q. When you came to count the straight tickets what was done?
A. The straight tickets were counted by one Judge and the other two stood by and watched.
Q. Were the straight Democratic votes counted the same way?
A. Yes Sir.
Q. When it came time to count the splits, was that done?
A. No, we divided them into three piles and a judge and clerk took a pile.

A. No Sir.
Q. Do you remember whether or not the ballots were strong or not?
A. Yes sir, they were.
Q. What was done after they had been strung?
A. Put in a bag.

A. No sir.
Q. Did you see any other judge or judges, clerk or clerks, person or persons mark, alter or change any ballots that day?
A. No sir.
Q. Have you any knowledge or information of any person marking, altering or changing any ballots there that day?
A. No sir.
That's all.

All others in this precinct testified to practically the same and denied they had changed any ballots.

The judges and clerks of the other precincts testified in a like manner in the fourteenth and first Joliet precincts.

William E. Barnes testified that he had, at the request of Robert W. Martin, measured the booths used in elections of Will County and found them to measure 32 1-2 x 32 1-2 x 75 inches and have a shelf of 12x29 1-2 inches in the older booths and 13 inches x 29 1-2 inches in the newer booths. All have originally been painted but the older ones are rusted and the paint gone.

Amelia Pehlke was called and stated that she had voted in the Fourteenth precinct. She lives on Ontario Street which is in the precinct and she voted at the right polling place.

The petitioners had previously called a Lily Pelkey, who resides at 424 S. Water Street, and who testified that she had voted at the 23rd precinct where she was supposed to vote. However, the 285th vote in the 14th precinct had the name of Lily Pelkey thereon.

James I. Ennis, handwriting expert for Markgraf is now on the stand and looked over the ballots objected to by Markgraf in the 18th Joliet precinct. He gave his opinion on several ballots that he contends are bad. He also picked out 43 ballots from the 4th precinct, Lockport and said the initials on the ballots altho having G. K. B. thereon were placed there by Mr. McSherry instead of Mr. Bartz.

The cross-examination of Mr. Ennis will be conducted by attorney's for Weston. This is possibly the last witness to be called in the case and, no doubt, the final arguments will start next week. Two more weeks should see the case in the hands of the judge who will take it under advisement for about two weeks. The outcome should be known about the end of the month.

Lengths of Famous Canals

The length of the waterway opened up by the Suez canal is 160 miles; the length of the Panama canal waterway is 50 1/2 miles. The Manchester canal in England has a length of 35 1/2 miles. The Welland canal, in Ontario, has a length of 26 1/2 miles.

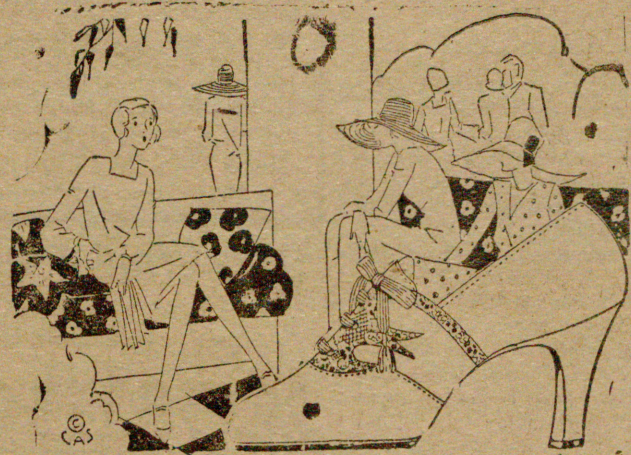

Bird Migration

The reason why birds migrate is a mystery to biologists. They have been studying for hundreds of years to find out and are as much in the dark today as they were 200 years ago, according to Dr. Alexander Wetmore, president of the American Ornithological union.

Rations for Fighters

During the World war the German soldiers were supplied with tea and coffee without milk. Small rations of rum and arrack were furnished to troops in field and camp. These rations were given out in the evening to be mixed with the tea. Fifteen to twenty men received one bottle. In times of great physical exertion, the allowance of sugar was increased.

HOW ENDLESS CHAIN SELLING PLANS ARE USED TO ROB SAVERS

W. R. Morehouse Continues His Exposures of Modern "Gold Brick" Schemes—American Bankers Association Official Tells How Life-Time Savings Are Wiped Out.

By W. R. MOREHOUSE,
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association.

ARTICLE NO. II

I FIRMLY believe that promoters and high-pressure salesmen are becoming more and more crafty. Shrewd ways are being resorted to in order to trap the novice investor. It is deplorable that the investor does not profit by experience and is victimized a second time in his endeavor to recover that which he has already lost. It is the old, old story of trying to recover, but in the attempt losing. This very hour thousands of hard-earned dollars have slipped from the grasp of the calloused hands that earned them into the clutches of unscrupulous skin-game artists. Tomorrow the scenes of today will be re-enacted with a new and larger list of victims. A month from today depositors will still be pouring an ever increasing volume of their savings into the hopper of unwise investments. A year from today the same tragedy will be re-enacted unless our savings bankers come to the rescue and help to stop this nefarious business of defrauding and swindling our savers of the fruits of their labors.

W. R. Morehouse

Here is a typical case. A group of men undertook to promote a vending or self-serving machine. Their plan called for the sale of $37,000,000 worth of leases in the United States. Similar projects previously started throughout the United States had failed. As a matter of fact, the average daily sale of one of these self-service machines was only $3.10, which in itself made it impossible for a machine to produce sufficient revenue to make it profitable. Servicing the machines was another obstacle which had not been successfully overcome. In three months the promoters were successful in selling over $2,500,000 worth of rights to use these machines.

$40,000 in Savings Lost by One Man
I know of one man who withdrew $40,000 from a savings bank and invested it in this promotion. He told me it represented the accumulations of a lifetime. "And now I have lost it all," he said in a trembling voice. "I haven't a cent left and I am past sixty years of age—too old to work!" he added.

Of the more than $2,500,000 invested by savers, over $1,000,000 was taken by these wily promoters as commission. Think of making a commission of over $1,000,000 on $2,500,000 of sales in about three months' time! Think of what this more than $1,000,000 of commission represents—think of the struggles and the sacrifices of the men and women who saved it! With some it was saved penny by penny over a period of years. Think of the sorrow it caused—the heartaches, the misery and the disappointment which followed in the wake of the collapse of this promotion. Think of the old man who lost $40,000—all he had been able to save during his lifetime. Think of the widow's mite, for she lost it also. All that is left today of the original investment is less than 10 cents on every dollar.

Here is an endless chain scheme which relieved working girls of a portion of their savings. The loss ran into many thousands of dollars. The scheme is to sell silk hose to girls by getting them to act as selling agents.

A hosiery company rents offices in the shopping district. Soon an attractive offer is made through the local newspapers by cleverly worded advertisements in which it would appear that any young lady can secure five pairs of hose worth $2 a pair for only $1. In other words, $10 worth of silk stockings for only $1! Without stopping to analyze the proposition or to consider how impossible it is for any concern to stay in business and sell $10 worth of silk hose for $1, thousands of young women instantly fall for the scheme.

How Endless Chain Catches Victims
Here is how it catches its victims. Each victim pays $4 and receives three one dollar coupons which she must sell to her friends, and the friends must come in and pay down $4 each, get three coupons each which they must sell to three friends and then these friends must perpetuate the scheme by selling coupons to their friends and so on indefinitely.

Here is where the promoters make a clean-up. One of the conditions which must be met before the young woman who purchased the first coupons receives her $10 worth of hose for $1 is that all three to whom she sold her three coupons must come in, pay down $4 each for three more coupons and then go out and sell them. Before the three have done this, one or perhaps all three get "cold feet" on the proposition and, rather than go out and "soak" three of their friends $1 each, they simply give up the job and charge their loss to experience. But in doing so they also block the girl who purchased the first coupons from completing her contract, and of course she, too, loses the money she invested in the scheme.

At a glance the loss appears to be small, but the truth is the scheme is capable of such great expansion that it soon takes in hundreds and thousands of victims. This is but one of many endless chain schemes in use today in the United States.

(Article III will deal with land swindles and loan shark plans for robbing people of their savings.)

The Most Important of All Elections

is the Judicial Election to be held on Monday, June 6th. It is the most Important election because, as Abraham Lincoln once said, "Nothing is so vastly important to the life and welfare of the people of this country and of the nation itself, as the selection of men of high character, wide experience and unimpeachable honesty to sit upon the bench."

The men presented here have all of these qualifications. Judges Hill and Hooper have had the opportunity to PROVE it by their excellent records on the bench. John A. Mayhew, an experienced and capable lawyer of Kankakee, can and will prove it, if elected.

Paine's Claim to Fame

Thomas Paine was born in 1737 and died in 1809. Of his work called "Common Sense" it is said that it was "the first open assertion of American independence, and was probably the most powerful pamphlet that ever influenced a nation's history." In this sense Thomas Paine may be said to have influenced the preparation and adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Referendum Before War

The Smithsonian Institution says that the holding of a referendum on war was the accepted method among organized Indian tribes like the Iroquoian and Muskogean tribes. This was mentioned by Lafitau in his writings published in 1724.

Slaves Were Shaved

A clean-shaven face in the East was originally a sign of servitude. Old pictures show kings and conquerors heavily bearded and with long hair, while their slaves and captives are clean-shaven and close-cropped. The Greeks and the Romans later discarded "face fungus," as it gave their enemies a hand-hold in the close fighting, which was, of course, the rule in those days.
